this book comprehensively contrasts hadith with the qur an in order to uncover some of the unjust practices by muslims concerning women and gender issues using specific examples the author argues that the human rights and the human development of muslim women will not progress in a meaningful and sustainable manner until the hadith is re examined in a fresh new approach from within the islamic framework shifting the discourse in understanding islam from a dogmatic religious law to a religio moral rational worldview sex slavery and the trafficked woman is a go to text for readers who seek a comprehensive overview of the meaning of human trafficking and current debates and perspectives on the issue it presents a more nuanced understanding of human trafficking and its victims by examining and challenging the conventional assumptions that sit at the heart of mainstream approaches to the topic a surprising look at women who wielded power in medieval europe from queens to concubines to abbesses medieval society might expect the elite women who decorated its courts to play the role of queen guinevere but many of these women had very different ideas great queens who sometimes ruled in their own right fought wars and forged empires noblewomen acted behind the scenes to change the course of politics far from cloistered off from the world powerful abbesses played the role of kingmaker and concubines had a role to play as well both as political actors and as mothers of children who might change a country's destiny they experienced tremendous success and dramatic downfalls this book tells the stories of women from across medieval europe from a danish queen who waged political war to form a scandinavian empire to a tuscan countess who joined her troops on the battlefield whether they wielded power in battle from a convent or from a throne or even in the bedchamber these women were far from damsels in distress waiting for their knights in shining armor the burgeoning scholarship on western health films stands in stark contrast to the vacuum in the historical conceptualization of eastern european films this book develops a nonlinear historical model that revises their unique role in the inception of national cinematography and establishing supranational health security readers witness the revelation of an unknown history concerning how the health films produced in eastern european countries not only adopted western patterns of propaganda but actively participated in its formation especially with regard to those considered others women and the populations of the periphery the authors elaborate on the long echo of the discursive practices introduced by health films within public health propaganda as well as the attempts to negate and deconstruct such practices by rebellious filmmakers a wide range of methods including the analysis of the sociological biographies of filmmakers the historical reconstruction of public campaigns against diseases and an investigation into the production of health films contextualizes these films along a multifaceted continuum stretching between the adaptation of global patterns and the cultivation of national authenticities the book is aimed at those who study the history of film the history of public health central and eastern european countries and global history the open access version of this book available at taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a creative commons attribution cc by 4.0 international license
